RESEARCH PAPERS IN PROGRESS

Follow-up analysis of the Vietnam Draft Lottery and racial attitudes. Extends the APSR study using American National Election Studies data to examine the durability and scope of treatment effects. (With D. P. Green.)

Real-time monitoring of Federal Home Loan Bank (FHLB) advances. Documents a novel monitoring tool for FHLB advances based on Fedwire payments data and demonstrates its value for tracking FHLBs' role as lenders of second-to-last resort during banking stress. (With A. Kotidis and A. Vardoulakis.)

Monetary tightening and income-based gaps in housing-credit allocation. Uses supervisory data on mortgage and home-equity lending to document widening income-based gaps in housing-credit allocation following policy rate increases. (With G. Kara and A. Vardoulakis.)

Collateral mobility between FHLBs and the Discount Window. Analyzes subordination agreements that allow depository institutions to move pledged collateral between FHLBs and the Discount Window and assesses the implications for liquidity provision during stress events. (With A. Kotidis.)

Shareholder power and worker earnings. Lead research assistant for A. Falato and co-authors on a paper using worker-level data from the U.S. Census Bureau's LEHD program (1993–2024) to compare earnings trajectories at firms experiencing concentrated increases in institutional ownership with firms that experience diffuse ownership changes; work conducted under Census RDC Special Sworn Status (valid through 2029; access to restricted microdata approved on a project-specific basis).

RESEARCH AND PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Federal Reserve Board of Governors, Senior Research Assistant — Jun 2023–Present

- Managed the primary data operations for the Board's daily monitoring of the Bank Term Funding Program.
- Developed a real-time monitoring tool for FHLB advances across all domestic depository institutions.
- Provided methodological and analytic support for five peer-reviewed papers using supervisory and liquidity data.
- Worked with a Federal Reserve AI research team to develop an LLM-based pipeline that extracts firms' investment plans from 10-K and 10-Q footnotes for roughly 100,000 firm-quarters of publicly traded U.S. firms.

Columbia University, Research Assistant to Professor Donald Green — May 2021–May 2023

- Built simulation models forming the analytical core of a forthcoming graduate-level textbook chapter on adaptive experimental design.
- Contributed data and replication support for two now-published projects, a field experiment and a meta-analysis examining the persuasive effects of narrative entertainment.

POLICY AND OUTREACH EXPERIENCE

Bipartisan Policy Center — Governance Intern — Summer 2022

- Contributed research and drafting assistance for BPC publications on election administration, including the report A Brief History of Tech and Elections and the explainer Ballot Pre-processing Policies Explained.
- Supported early planning for BPC's 2022 Elections Summit, creating the event webpage and drafting session descriptions.

New York Civil Liberties Union — Volunteer — Jun 2020–May 2021

- Helped clean and organize NYPD misconduct complaint data from the Civilian Complaint Review Board.
- Produced outreach materials for the NYCLU's New York City 2021 Voter Guide initiative.

TEACHING AND MENTORING EXPERIENCE

High School for Math, Science, and Engineering, Volunteer Tutor — 2019–2023

- Tutored high-school students for standardized exams including the SAT, ACT, SAT Math II, AP Calculus BC, AP Statistics, AP Physics C: Mechanics, AP U.S. History, and AP World History: Modern.

METHODS AND SKILLS

Causal inference and research design: natural and quasi-experiments; adaptive experiments; instrumental variables; principal-stratification frameworks; event study models; cluster and block random assignment; randomization inference

Quantitative methods: linear and generalized linear models; multilevel and panel-data models; clustered and robust inference; bootstrap methods

Computational social science: API-based data collection; large-scale data cleaning and validation; text preprocessing and coding; supervised text classification

Statistical software and programming: Stata; R; Python; SQL; Unix command-line tools for data and file management; Git and collaborative platforms (GitHub, GitLab)

Research workflow: LaTeX and Overleaf; reproducible, script-based analysis pipelines; version-controlled projects and replication files
